

Workshop on Crafting Effective Professional Development Opportunities

This workshop is a hands-on experience where district and school leaders will work on developing an upcoming PD. Using Thomas Guskey's 5 levels of evaluating the effectiveness of PD, participants will backwards plan their PD offering to enable the collection of effectiveness data at each of the 5 levels. Participants will collaborate and share ideas and best practices to harness the expertise of the group. Each participant will leave with the beginning of a plan to address each of the 5 levels. Participants should come prepared with all of the information needed to answer detailed questions about the PD event, desired outcomes, and environment required for successful implementation.
